In this light, let us spend some time planning your Funeral Mass and other Rites. Fr. Don will lead an hour-long discussion on the Rite of Christian Funerals on November 17th with two meeting options: From 1pm until 2pm or from 6:30pm until 7:30pm. Please call the parish to sign up 304-342-8175.

A note from the Rector...

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Greetings on this 33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time.

As I mentioned in my note from last week this year marks our 125th Anniversary of the very first Mass celebrated in our Church building, presided by Bishop Patrick Donahue on Christmas Eve of 1897. As we remember and give praise to God for those who built our Church, now is the time to care for the Church building they entrusted to us. Through God's blessings, our community has grown into a welcoming parish, with a strong tradition of worship that makes us a vibrant, active and dynamic place for parishioners of all ages.

Last week we had the kickoff of our major campaign to provide funding for our parish and the needs of Sacred Heart Grade School titled "Renewing Our Present, Securing Our Future". I am grateful to Cindy McGhee and Kirsten Mork, co-chairs of this campaign who spoke last weekend at the Masses. The mailings for the campaign were sent out the middle of last week, so watch your mail box.

I ask for your prayers for the success of our campaign.

Yours in Christ,
Fr. Don

It was a short week for us. We celebrated Veteran's Day with a program by Kindergarten and First Grades on Thursday afternoon. We were able to honor many veterans with songs and poems. The students all wore red, white, and blue! Grades 3-5 sent in many boxes to help the Knights of Columbus with their Boxes of Joy program. We were so happy to help. Next week will be a regular week before we go into Thanksgiving and our Clay Co. food collection.

A Joyful Psalm #70: Psalm 98

The end is near! We are now arriving at the conclusion of Ordinary Time, and the Church reflects on the end of the world. The Greek word Apocalypse means "Revelatio" in Latin, which means "to reveal." The readings this weekend reveal for us some insights concerning the Apocalypse.

In the First Reading, we hear a sobering message: "Lo, the day is coming, blazing like an oven, when all the proud and all evildoers will be stubble, and the day that is coming will set them on fire. (Malachi 3:19) In the Gospel Reading, Jesus is standing next to one of the most magnificent Temples of His day, and He says: "All that you see here--the days will come when there will not be left a stone upon another stone that will not be thrown down." (Luke 21:5)

Fear not! For those who die in friendship with God will be saved. Stay close to Jesus. Stay close to the Sacraments. And at the end of the world, "the Lord will come to rule the earth with justice." (Psalm 98)

Mark Haas, Director of Music

Our Parish will have the honor of receiving the relics of Blessed Carlo Acutis and Saint Manual Gonzalez on November 14th. We will host a Holy Hour of Veneration at 5pm with Mass at 6pm.

CATHOLIC HERALD

Carlo Acutis: His Life and Legacy by Corinna Turner

Carlo Acutis Born in London, in 1991, Carlo and his family soon moved back to Italy, where he grew up as an ordinary only child. He loved football, Pokémon, action films, and all animals (he had four dogs, two cats and many goldfish as pets). From early childhood, his first love was Our Lord in the Eucharist.

Neither of his parents were religious, yet from an early age Carlo never wanted to pass a church without going in to “say hello to Jesus.” As a result, his mother came back to faith, then his father. Carlo received his First Holy Communion early, at his own request, in a local convent, entering under a doorway that said “God is enough.”

Carlo’s love, appreciation and reverence for the Eucharist were exceptional. “The Eucharist is my highway to Heaven!” he would say. And, “If we get in front of the sun, we get sun tans, but when we get in front of Jesus in the Eucharist, we become Saints.”

He never missed daily Mass, even when (from the age of eleven) he began visiting Eucharistic miracles all over the world with his parents, documenting them. A “computer genius” and possible future patron saint of the internet, by age fourteen he had created a Eucharistic Miracle display that would tour the world, along with a website. He believed that if people knew that Jesus was truly in the Eucharist, they would turn to God.

Carlo knew he would die young, even predicting the cause of his death and his weight at the time. His mother said, “Carlo always had a sense that he couldn’t waste time.” He hated to be enslaved by anything, so although he loved computer games, he allowed himself to play for only one hour a week, and gave the rest of his time to good works helping children, the elderly, and the poor. As soon as he was confirmed, age eleven, he became a catechist. He met and chatted with many migrants, standing sponsor for one when he got baptized. He was popular at school, but also befriended children who were unhappy at home, defended the disabled, and treated girls with an old-fashioned purity that challenged everyone. He would defend his Catholic faith — including his pro-life views — fearlessly in class.

Then, in early October, 2006, Carlo became ill with flu — so it was thought, until his condition deteriorated. He was admitted to hospital, receiving a terrible diagnosis: “It is a devastating leukemia.” The fifteen-year-old boy who loved to laugh had days to live. Carlo took the news calmly, immediately offering all his sufferings for the Pope, the Church, and his own direct entry into heaven (he had a horror of purgatory). “I am happy to die,” he said, “because I have lived my life without wasting a minute on those things which do not please God.”

“I would like to leave this hospital,” he told his mother, “but I know I will not do so alive. I will give you signs, though, that I am with God.” He died on October 12. Some of his last words were to a nurse who offered to wake his mother, since he was suffering. He refused: “She is very tired as well and she will only worry even more.”

Exactly four years later, on the anniversary of Carlo’s death, at the age of forty-four, his mother gave birth to the promised ‘signs’—Carlo’s twin brother and sister.

Carlo’s mother has said that God chose Carlo to be “an example for the young people of this period in history.” On Saturday the Church gains a truly inspiring new Blessed to walk alongside our young people and lead them on the highway to heaven. Blessed Carlo Acutis, pray for us.

Scepter

Saint Manuel Garcia by Victoria G. Schneider

On October 16, 2016, the Church of God raised another saint to her altars. The canonization of Saint Manuel González in our day is a timely gift bestowed upon us by the solicitous hand of Divine Providence. We might well describe him as one of those saints of the Blessed Sacrament. All saints are Eucharistic saints, but some are more characterized by their devotion to the Eucharist than others. The life and mission of Saint Manuel was entirely and explicitly Eucharistic.

The Bishop of the Abandoned Tabernacle was proud to be an ambassador of the Eucharistic King in the world. It was his greatest joy to be able to speak on behalf of the love of his silent Sovereign and thereby draw souls to his Sacred Heart. Perhaps there is no other priestly saint since the great Curé of Ars who has spoken so eloquently of the living presence of Christ in the tabernacle. As a priest, I have always tried to draw souls to the Blessed Sacrament, but after having discovered his writings, I feel as though I have scarcely even begun to foster the true awe demanded by such a mystery. If Saint Manuel González was so outraged by the indifferent attitude towards the Eucharist that he observed in the Church a hundred years ago, what would he say today? His words are a clarion call to priests—indeed, to all Christians—to arise from spiritual slumber and to draw near to the light of the Eucharistic Sun of Love. Perhaps his canonization is heaven’s urgent invitation addressed to the whole Church to prostrate itself at the foot of the tabernacle. There alone is found the mystical source from which flow torrents of purifying grace and mercy. There alone do we encounter the heavenly well-spring from which the Church can be constantly renewed. The world has become a spiritual desert for want of having recourse to the tabernacle.

Bishop Manuel’s Eucharistic piety was present from his youth, but it became the heartbeat of his spiritual life and the animating principle of his ministry after a particular experience at the outset of his priestly mission. Through a mystical moment of grace, he came to understand the truth of a phrase made famous by Saint Francis of Assisi: “Love is not loved!” In an instant, he realized the astonishing nature of Christ’s love in the Blessed Sacrament, as well as the equally astonishing lack of love with which we surround this mystery. Though he had already believed in the Eucharistic Presence long before this experience, the full force of this truth in that moment seized his heart in a new way, thus becoming the unique driving-force for his life’s mission. He had undergone a kind of spiritual shock at the way the gift of the Eucharist is so sorely spurned by human hearts. In the lives of the saints, there is often one key moment of grace which thereafter directs the entire course of their holy existence. For Saint Manuel, it was the unforgettable experience of the abandoned tabernacle.
