PARISH MISSION STATEMENT

“We, at the Basilica of the Co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, are a diverse community of the poor, the disadvantaged and hungry, the well-to-do, the youth, elderly, visitors and those seeking refuge.

As a community of many cultures and races, we stand for unity in our diversity by expressing our love of God the Father through prayer and worship, through service to one another, through the ministry of welcoming, through evangelization and ecumenism. With the Bishop, we shall pursue this mission faithfully through the example of Jesus Christ, the power of the Holy Spirit and the gifts and talents of our members.” All are welcome today, especially visitors, guests and those who might be new to the community.

Stella Quigley is turning 90 years young!

Birthday wishes and blessings for Stella who has been a member of our parish for 90 years!

In order to keep Advent, Advent, the Catholic church prefers not to display Christmas decorations until after the fourth Sunday of Advent.

This year, that Sunday is December 23, which doesn't give our parish volunteer decorators much time to deck the halls before Christmas Eve masses. To accommodate this, we will be decorating for Christmas after the noon mass on Dec. 23.

Many hands are needed to help, starting at 1 p.m. Dec. 23. Please consider giving an hour of your time to help with this joyful task. No skills are required. For more information or if you have questions, contact Julie Robinson at 304-444-9517 or julial@suddenlink.net or Lisa Dobbins at 304-541-6998 or lisasd1@outlook.com.

PRAYER FOR A NEW BISHOP
FOR THE DIOCESE OF WHEELING-CHARLESTON

God of the Centuries, you have always guided your people by raising up leaders among us and anointing them for mission, ministry and service.

Your Son called his Apostles to heal the brokenhearted and to become the first stewards and preachers of the Gospel. Hear our prayers today and through your Holy Spirit send us a Bishop, to nourish us with word and sacrament, to set a paschal banquet of charity among these West Virginia hills, to call us to mercy and justice and to kindly serve all who seek your face. We pray through Christ our Lord. Amen.

The 2019 Religious Art Calendar's

In the Service of the Transmission of Faith
That people, who are involved in the service and transmission of faith, may find, in their dialogue with culture, a language suited to the conditions of the present time.

Third Sunday of Advent

God of Truth

God of truth, you help us to see ourselves for who we are in our selfishness and sinfulness. We are stung and left to ask, "What should we do?" Strengthen us to follow your Great Commandment: to love you, Lord, with all our heart, with all our soul, with all our mind, and all our strength, and our neighbor as ourselves. Save us from your judgment and instead rejoice over us as we rejoice in your great kindness. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sunday, December 16, 2018-Rejoice! The Lord is near

Today's Readings: Zephaniah 3:14–18a; Isaiah 12:2–3, 4, 5–6; Philippians 4:4–7; Luke 3:10–18. The people who gather around John the Baptist are both stung by his words and attracted by what he is saying. Their self-interest and avarice have led them to dishonest practices, but now they seem willing to leave those ways behind to welcome the Christ. John assures them that, although he is not the Christ, another is coming who will baptize with the Holy Spirit and fire. The anticipation is building, and we can imagine their excitement as they await his coming.

Excitement is building in the Church as we move through Advent. This Third Sunday of Advent is called "Gaudete," a word that means "rejoice." St. Paul tells us why: "the Lord is near." We know, as John's disciples only hoped, that the Lord has come and lived among us as one of us. That alone is cause for rejoicing. We also know that he died and was raised from the dead, and he shares his risen life with us through the Baptism promised by John. More reason to rejoice! But since God has extravagant love, there is more. Jesus has promised he will return, that there will be new heavens and a new earth, and God will be "all in all." We wait for that day, the Parousia, rejoicing that the Lord is near.

As you light the rose-colored candle on your Advent wreath this week, recall the day when you were baptized with the Holy Spirit and fire. What words and signs help you to know that the Lord was near on that day and continues to be with you? How is your life different because of your Baptism? Are you on fire with love for God?

This Week at Home

Monday, December 17-Meet Jesus' Family

In the Middle East, even today, people care about family history. They don't want to know so much "who are you?" as "whose are you?" Matthew obliges by giving us Jesus' family tree. To fulfill the prophecies of the Messiah, he must come from the line of King David. Since Abraham is the father of all Jews, the genealogy must go back to him. What does Jesus' genealogy tell us about our heritage? Whose are we? Today's Readings: Genesis 49:2, 8–10; Psalm 72:1–2, 3–4ab, 7–8, 17; Matthew 1:1–17.

Tuesday, December 18-A Righteous Man

Today we hear an account of Jesus' birth from Joseph's perspective, including his dream in which an angel spoke to him. Matthew calls Joseph "a righteous man," and his deeds show him to be so: He does not want to expose Mary to shame. He listens to the angel, and he follows the angel's commands. How does God make his will known to us? Are we listening? Are we willing to do something that might be difficult? Today's Readings: Jeremiah 23:5–8; Psalm 72:1–2, 12–13, 18–19; Matthew 1:18–25.

Wednesday, December 19-Flower of Jesse's Stem

The "O" Antiphons have for centuries been part of Evening Prayer from December 17 to 23. Each gives a title to Christ, links him to Isaiah's prophecy, and implores him to "come!" Today we pray, "O Flower of Jesse's stem, you have been raised up as a sign for all peoples; kings stand silent in your presence; the nations bow down in worship before you. Come, let nothing keep you from coming to our aid." Christ, who like King David descended from Jesse, is a king of a different order, adored by all nations. It is hard to wait for such a king! Today's Readings: Judges 13:2–7, 24–25a; Psalm 71:3–4a, 5–6ab, 16–17; Luke 1:5–25.

Thursday, December 20-Do Not Be Afraid

In Luke's account of the Annunciation, Mary is initially troubled at the angel's greeting; but after Gabriel assures her she has nothing to fear, she consents to be the mother of the Messiah. St. John writes: "There is no fear in love, but perfect love drives out fear" (1 John 4:18a). Mary's perfect love for God allows her to accept God's plan for her life. Do your fears hold you back from giving your life totally to Jesus? Today's Readings: Isaiah 7:10–14; Psalm 24:1–2, 3–4ab, 5–6; Luke 1:26–38.

Friday, December 21-Leaping for Joy

Song of Songs uses poetic images for the love between God, the lover, and his people, the beloved. In The History of the Kingdom of God: From Creation to Parousia, theologian Sofia Cavalletti writes, "A plan has always existed in the mind of God, the aim of which is to bring humankind to the full enjoyment of God." While we await that day, we can enjoy God's presence now. John leaps for joy in his mother's womb in recognition of Jesus, just as the lover in the Song of Songs leaps across the hills on his way to the beloved. Today's Readings: Song of Songs 2:8–14; Psalm 33:2–3, 11–12, 20–21; Luke 1:39–45.

Saturday, December 22-The Greatness of the Lord

Have you ever felt a strong desire to praise God—perhaps while on a mountaintop or at the birth of a child? When Mary hears Elizabeth's greeting, she is overcome with that desire. As she proclaims the Magnificat, she praises God for his holiness, justice, and great deeds. Her prayer reveals so much about our God and offers such perfect praise that the Church prays it each day at Evening Prayer. Today's Readings: 1 Samuel 1:24–28; 1 Samuel 2:1, 4–5, 6–7, 8abcd; Luke 1:46–56.

Take the Child

We shelter and protect those in our care

By Melissa Musick Nussbaum

This Advent I will be baking gingerly. And I don't mean I will be baking with ginger, though I might. I mean I will be taking care not to lift my right arm too high or too far to the side, any of the movements that will further stress my already torn rotator cuff tendon. I will do my exercises and see my physical therapist and take my Advil and I will bake, careful to stay in the safe zone of arm movement. I will bake because there are grandchildren expecting star- and candy cane-shaped sugar cookies.

The same grandchildren who are waiting for Christmas cookies are the reason my rotator cuff has come undone. We were hiking in the mountains on July 4 when the rains came. We could hear the thunder and see the lightning. Grandpa and the older kids wanted to go on, up to the top of Turtle Rock. But 5-year old Leo wanted to go back to the cabin. So did I. We started down the hill.

Leo was a boon companion. Soaked and shivering, he chatted as though we were already sitting by the fire, hot chocolate in hand. When I slipped and fell on the rain-slick rocks, he asked kindly, "Ma-Maw, are you alright?"

"I will be," I answered.

When it became clear to both of us that we were not on the trail, Leo asked, "Ma-Maw, are we lost?"

"A little bit," I answered.

The thunder rumbled closer. A streak of lightning split the clouds. Leo said, "Ma-Maw, I'm a little bit scared."

I said, "I'm a little bit scared, too, Leo. A little bit is probably just the right amount of scared."

My shoulder and hip hurt where I fell on the rocks, but I was walking fast, so I knew everything was working. It was the thunder and lightning that worried me. I began to pray, silently and fervently.

When we saw the path and saw the familiar landmarks we had passed on the way in, I said, "Oh, Leo, I'm so grateful. I was praying that Jesus would show us the way to the cabin."

"Where were you praying?" he asked. "In your head?"

Yes. Yes, in my head, in my heart, in my feet, in my hands. I just wanted to get Leo down the hill and out of the rain, away from the lightning. Concern for him quieted the pain in my shoulder and kept me walking.

I think often of Mary and Joseph's journeys at this time of year. I think of Mary, in the last weeks of her pregnancy, riding on a donkey to Bethlehem. I think of Joseph leading the animal, aware of the pain etched on Mary's face by the rocky roads. I think of them wandering through the streets of Bethlehem, tired and hungry, asking for a place to lie down and rest. They are turned away, again and again. Does anyone even offer a drink of water, a piece of bread?

They have a home in Nazareth, but Mary and Joseph must register for the census in Bethlehem. Their unborn child needs parents who are not in trouble with the Roman authorities.

When the couple finds shelter in a barn, the baby is born. But they can't stay even in that rude sanctuary. They may be on (temporarily) good terms with Rome, but the local ruler, Herod, is hunting for their son to kill him.

So it's back on the road, heading to Egypt and sanctuary. Like Joseph of old, this Joseph takes Mary and the baby to a place where they are aliens, and strangers. And, like Joseph of old, he hopes to find there that what men meant for evil, God meant for good.

We speak of Mary and Joseph's obedience to God. But I'm thinking of their care for their son, their obedience to the call of his needs. They protect the baby Jesus, and they protect him at the cost of their own comfort and safety and health. How did Mary endure the journeys? How did Joseph find work in Egypt? Where did they find food for the family?

I read about a French couple who died last summer in the fierce heat of the New Mexico sand dunes. Their son lived, doctors speculate, because they gave him most of their small store of water. I recall a student whose mother had carried her, in her arms, on her back, through the deserts of northern Mexico across the border into Texas. I read about Syrians and Iraqis, walking, begging, hiding their children, carrying them, smuggling them across borders to safety. They are hunted. Their children are hunted. But they "rise, take the child" and flee into whatever is their Egypt.

My story is of a tiny slip, a minor mishap, the consequence of which is only discomfort and inconvenience. Still, I don't recall any pain from that long walk down until Leo was safe and the rest of the children back safe, too. Then I could pay attention to my arm. We share so much with Mary and Joseph, including the way all of us parents learn how love grows, by giving love to the little ones in our care.

Mount Olivet Mausoleum

Mount Olivet Catholic Cemetery, Charleston, WV

Due to the lack of space in our current mausoleum, we are planning the construction of an additional mausoleum adjacent to the present site. Our future mausoleum will provide the prestige and serenity of above-ground burial with the relaxing and comfortable environment for loved ones to visit year-round. This mausoleum will hold 180 casket spaces, which includes single and tandem crypts, and 90 niche spaces and will be nestled against an earthly rock backdrop.

To purchase or learn more about arrangements for above ground entombment or inurnment, please contact the parish office 304-342-8175, Monday - Friday, 8:30am - 4:30pm and ask to speak to Sheila Kerekes or John Blake or via email at Skerekes@shccwv.us or Jblake@shccwv.us.
