The Pope's Monthly Intention

March-For the new martyrs

We pray that those who risk their lives for the Gospel in various parts of the world inflame the Church with their courage and missionary enthusiasm.

FYI...The Sacrament of Confirmation will be celebrated Saturday, June 8th at the 5:30 pm Mass.

A note from the Rector...

Dear Sisters and Brothers in the Lord,

Greetings on this Palm Sunday of the Passion of the Lord! Welcome to Holy Week!

Today we recall Jesus' entry into His own city of Jerusalem. As we enter this most Sacred Holy Week, I strongly encourage to join us for each of these Holy Days. I ask you to please watch your email for Holy Week & Easter Flocknote ministry signups. Please be a service to our community.

Bishop Mark will preside at our 8:00am and 10:30am Palm Sunday Masses. It is wonderful to have him with us this Sunday. You are invited to join Bishop Mark and the priests of the Diocese for the Chrism Mass on Monday at 4:00pm.

Please keep in your prayers those preparing to enter the Roman Catholic Church at the Easter Vigil. Our candidates: Olivia Campbell, Megan Estep, Joe Hanson, Nick Harmon, Marsha Hoyer, Sherry Massey, Devon Pring & Leah Pring .

Please make use of this prayer during this Holy Week. I remain,

Yours in Christ,
Fr. Don

God as we walk through Holy week toward the cross, may we remember the wonder of who you are. Beyond sin your love is inexhaustible, beyond brokenness your forgiveness is incomprehensible. Beyond betrayal your grace is poured out eternally, beyond death your life is unimaginable. Beyond human understanding, your ways are always higher than ours.

Palm Sunday

Promise of Life

Lord God, you entered Jerusalem in triumph, and we shouted, “Hosanna!” As the Lenten journey closes, may I continue to remember your sacrifice and love. Give me the strength to follow your cross. May my heart find serenity and joy in your promise. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sunday, March 24, 2024-Never Alone

Today’s readings: Gospel at the procession Mark 11:1–10 or John 12:12–16; Isaiah 50:4–7; Psalm 22:8–9, 17–18, 19–20, 23–24; Philippians 2:6–11; Mark 14:1–15:47. Today’s readings leave us much to ponder. During the Gospel at the procession, a crowd welcomes Jesus to Jerusalem, singing, “Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!” At the end of the Gospel from Mark, Jesus was not hailed but reviled as passersby taunted, “You who would destroy the temple in three days, save yourself by coming down from the cross.”

In the last verses from Mark’s Gospel, we witness the faith of the steadfast disciples, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of younger James and Joses, and Salome. These women had followed Jesus in Galilee, stood by until his death, and watched where he was laid in a tomb. Apparent, too, is the faith of Joseph of Arimathea, who wrapped Jesus in linen and laid him in the tomb.

Also obvious in the Gospel is the wavering faith of those who had followed Jesus for three years. Not only did Judas betray Jesus, but Peter could not stay awake with him as he prayed in the garden, and later Peter denied him three times. The Gospel proclaimed today does not record the apostles’ presence at the crucifixion.

During Holy Week, Christians have the opportunity to be with Christ as his last days are recalled. Take to heart Jesus’ words to the apostles in Gethsemane: “Remain here and keep watch.”

This Week at Home

Monday, March 25-A Precious Offering

In today’s Gospel we see how Mary, Lazarus’ sister, takes what may have been her most precious possession and used it to anoint Jesus’ feet. We are also given opportunities to give the very best of ourselves. Today, examine whether you have gifts within you that you hold back. Who would benefit from those gifts? Today’s readings: Isaiah 42:1–7; Psalm 27:1, 2, 3, 13–14; John 12:1–11.

Tuesday, March 26-Judas Is Humanity

Imagine how Jesus would have felt knowing that Judas was about to betray him. He surely was troubled but also hurt. Let us also imagine what may have been in the mind and heart of Judas. In Judas we can see all of humanity reflected: the emptiness of greed and envy, the alienation and loneliness of sin. However much we strive to be like Jesus, we will always meet our flaws and shortcomings. In Christ, however, we are strengthened to do good in the world despite our failings. As we approach the celebration of the resurrection and prepare for the renewal of our baptismal promises, resolve to let the new life that Christ gives to well up within you. Today’s readings: Isaiah 49:1–6; Psalm 7:1–2, 3–4a, 5ab–6ab, 15, 17; John 13:21–33, 36–38.

Wednesday, March 27-Second Chances

Much can be learned from Judas’ betrayal. Perhaps by examining Judas’ actions, we can right our failings. Consider how you can explore and acknowledge what keeps you from God. This week reflect on the times you preferred a path other than God’s. How did following another way disturb your relationship with God and others? Trust in God’s promise of forgiveness for all who truly repent. Today’s readings: Isaiah 50:4–9a; Psalm 69:8–10; 21–22, 31, 33–34; Matthew 26:14–25.

Thursday, March 28-Serving Others

Tonight, with the Mass of the Lord’s Supper, the Sacred Paschal Triduum begins. Humbling himself, Jesus washed and dried the feet of the disciples. Just as he washed their feet, by his resurrection, he washed away our sins. Perhaps you have an elderly parent, neighbor, or relative with impaired movement. How can you humble yourself and be of service to another? Mass of the Lord’s Supper: Exodus 12:1–8, 11–14; Psalm 116:12–13, 15–16bc, 17–18; 1 Corinthians 11:23–26; John 13:1–15.

Friday, March 29-Symbol of Love

During the Adoration of the Holy Cross in today’s liturgy, the faithful are invited to process to the cross and offer a sign of reverence. Even when you are unable to attend this service, spend time in quiet contemplating Jesus’ surrender of himself on the cross. How are you asked to surrender yourself to the crosses in your life? Celebration of the Passion of the Lord: Isaiah 52:13–53:12; Psalm 31:2, 6, 12–13, 15–16, 17, 25; Hebrews 4:14–16, 5:7–9; John 18:1–19:42.

Saturday, March 30-Beacon of Light in the Darkness

Jesus has died and descended into hell but the darkness surrounding us is only temporary. The light of the world will shine brightly once more, and soon enough it will defeat the darkness. Today’s readings: Genesis 1:1–2:2; Psalm 104:1–2, 5–6, 10, 12, 13–14, 24, 35 or Psalm 33:4–5, 6–7, 12–13, 20–22; Genesis 22:1–18; Psalm 16:5, 8, 9–10, 11; Exodus 14:15–15:1; Exodus 15:1–2, 3–4, 5–6, 17–18; Isaiah 54:5–14; Psalm 30:2, 4, 5–6, 11–12, 13; Isaiah 55:1–11; Isaiah 12:2–3, 4, 5–6; Baruch 3:9–15, 32–4:4; Psalm 19:8, 9, 10, 11; Ezra 36:16–17a, 18–28; Psalm 42:3, 5; 43:3, 4 or Isaiah 12:2–3, 4bcd, 5–6 or Psalm 51:12–13, 14–15, 18–19; Romans 6:3–11; Psalm 118:1–2, 16–17, 22–23; Mark 16:1–7.

Catholic Teaching on In Vitro Fertilization (IVF)

The Alabama Supreme Court's 8-1 decision on February 16, 2024, declaring that an embryo is a human being and is protected under state law from mistreatment, has brought to public scrutiny the procedure called in vitro fertilization (IVF). The media generally has derided the decision, saying that the Court's decision makes embryos equivalent to "people" or "children." Many politicians, both conservative and liberal, have taken a stand in favor of IVF and say it must be protected in law. The Alabama legislature quickly passed a bill giving legal immunity to facilities that perform IVF and to those who seek it. IVF births are about 2% of all children born in the United States.

The underlying problem is infertility. I pray regularly for infertile couples I know. Every once in a while, I hear that the wife is now pregnant and I rejoice. A couple usually seeks advice from a gynecologist/obstetrician. If the OBGYN follows established protocols, a thorough examination of fertility issues for both the man and the woman is conducted, which sometimes leads to remedies that allow the couple to conceive a child naturally. There are reports that at other times a complete fertility examination is not done and the couple is simply referred to a fertility clinic to start IVF or artificial insemination.

The basic principle guiding Catholic reflection on infertility is that measures that assist a couple to conceive a child in their marital act are permissible while measures that replace the marital act are not. Both nature and God intend that the conception of new human beings occur in the intimate relations of a man and woman who should be committed not only to one another (i.e., married) but to the responsible upbringing of their children.

IVF departs from that norm. Its very name, in vitro, means in Latin that the conception occurs "in glass" (a petri dish in most cases), not in the couple's marital act. Ovum and sperm are extracted from the man and woman, often by masturbation, and are manipulated in the laboratory. Multiple embryos are usually created, because some do not survive the freezing before insertion in the mother; others are not used because they are judged to have low reproductive potential; and some of those with high reproductive potential fail to attach to the uterine wall. As laudable as sympathy for an infertile couple may be, there is more than a whiff of "eugenics" in IVF as medical personnel choose which embryos are worthy of life and which are not.

So, what happens to the embryos that are not used? Unless the couple objects, they are discarded. If the couple wants to keep them, they are kept frozen for possible future use. Now, consider again what the media and many politicians have said: "The Alabama Supreme Court called these embryos people!" But the Court got it exactly right. What species are these embryos? Canine (dog)? Feline (cat)? Bovine (cow)? No, they are homo sapiens: they are "humans who know." They may be small and only in the initial stages of development, but they are human beings. Simply throwing them out kills them, a literal example of Pope Francis' sharp criticism of our modern "throw-away culture."

Even though the embryos that died in the Alabama hospital should never have been conceived by IVF, still they were conceived and should be protected. That's why the Alabama Supreme Court ruled that the parents of those embryos could sue for damages owing to the destruction of their children due to the negligence of the IVF clinic.

Every help possible should be given to couples experiencing infertility but the ends do not justify the means. Technology in medicine as in warfare, commerce, and daily actions such as driving a car or using the Internet must be guided by ethical standards or else technology will betray the good which it pretends to serve. IVF looks for a short-term solution but does not recognize the longer-term damage it does by making the embryo an object of medical manipulation rather than a fruit of parental love.

The Catholic Church, relying on the sound conclusions of philosophy, anthropology and moral theology, has not approved in vitro fertilization because it does not assist a couple to achieve a pregnancy through their intimate union but rather replaces it. Our Church has also sponsored research to aid infertile couples. It behooves a couple facing infertility to insist on a thorough examination of the causes of their condition to see if a remedy may be found.

It is the normal desire and expectation of most couples to have children but there is no absolute right to have a child. If a couple's desire cannot be achieved by morally and spiritually appropriate means, then, if they are persons of faith, it behooves them to accept their condition, just as God would want them to do if they conceived and gave birth to a child with serious physical or mental deficiencies. Potential parents are not consumers "buying" children. I have known childless couples who have adopted children, others who have given time and energy working with youth in their parish or community, others who have careers teaching children or serving them in the medical and legal professions. When faced with childlessness, we who believe in a provident God must seek above all to do God's will and trust that this will bring the best outcome: peace of soul and a clear conscience.

Sincerely in Christ,

+Mark E. Brennan
